Curriculum Vitae

Cornelis A. Grimbergen (Kees) was born in Leiden, the Netherlands, in 1947. After receiving his Ir. degree in Electrical Engineering at the Delft University of Technology he was active in research in solid-state physics, semiconductor technology, resulting in a Ph.D. degree in 1977 from the State University of Groningen. From 1977 he has been with the Laboratory of Medical Physics of the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Amsterdam working as an assistant-professor. From 1991 he is a part-time professor at the Measurement & Control Department of the Faculty of Mechanics of the Delft University of Technology. From 1995 he is also professor in Medical Technology at the Academic Medical Center of the University of Amsterdam (AMC).

He is involved in committees determining the strategy of acquisition of instrumentation for the AMC and organizes annually a symposium on trends in medical technology.

His interests and research projects are in the fields of medical instrumentation, biomedical image processing, and minimally-invasive techniques.
